

10. The method as claimed in claim 1, wherein the second payment system is associated with a second communication network, and the first payment 5 system and the second payment system are used to prepare a payment transaction across communication networks.